

Modality in the Architecture of Language

Special issue of Evolutionary Linguistic Theory 7:1/2 (2025)

Editors  Ermenegildo Bidese | University of Trento
Manuela Caterina Moroni | University of Bergamo

[Evolutionary Linguistic Theory, 7:1/2] 2025. v, 207 pp.
Publishing status: Printing; Print edition expected June 2026
Published online on 22 May 2026
© John Benjamins Publishing Company

 <https://doi.org/10.1075/elt.7.1-2>

SUBSCRIPTION INFO

▼ TABLE OF CONTENTS

OBITUARY

In memoriam
p. 1

INTRODUCTION

 The nature of modality: Werner Abraham's perspective
Ermenegildo Bidese & Manuela Caterina Moroni | pp. 2–9

ARTICLES

From needing to wanting: Taking a deep dive into Abraham's Modal Protosoup
Jakob Maché | pp. 10–50

Perspectival mechanisms of modality: Semantic shifts of modal verb sollen ('shall') + inf. in German
Stefan Hinterwimmer & Sonja Zeman | pp. 51–79

 Modality and illocutionary force: Problems for complementation and assignment of attitudes
Björn Wiemer | pp. 80–124

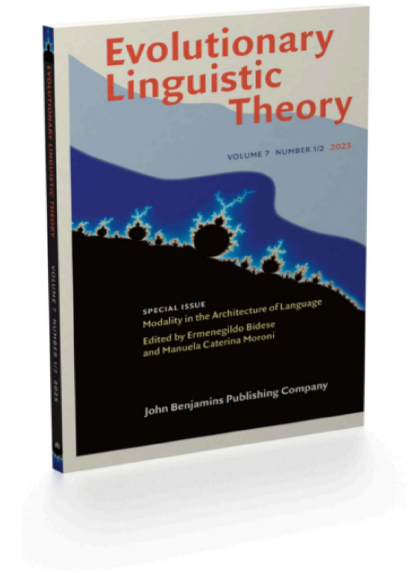

Modal particles as test case for multi-layer approaches to commitment and assertion
Pierre-Yves Modicom | pp. 125–147

Transitioning developmental paths in modal flavors: An experimental pilot study
Kurt Erbach & Remus Gergel | pp. 148–174

The rise of epistemic modal verbs in German
Augustin Speyer | pp. 175–190

 The middle-field restriction of Germanic modal particles: A historical-comparative solution to Abraham's paradox
Marco Coniglio | pp. 191–207

► SUBJECTS AND METADATA

SHARE 